

THE HERALD'S SOCIETY AND FAMILY PAGE

Doings of Society

The President and Mrs. Wilson were hosts last evening at a totally new form of White House entertainment when they invited a small company to a moving picture show on the lawn.

The pictures consisted of a photoplay by Augustus Thomas, the author of Arizona and other out-door dramas. Mr. Thomas, who is a true and tried Democrat, enjoying a personal acquaintance with the President, secured the favor of a private reception of his latest work "Cubala."

The screen on which the pictures were shown was erected on the south lawn with the company seated between the screen and the White House.

This arrangement permitted any one not wishing to sit on the lawn to enjoy the pictures from the south porch. The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Daniels, the Attorney General, the Postmaster General and Mrs. Burleson, and the Misses Burleson, the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Lane, the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Redfield and their daughter, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Labor and his daughter, Miss Wilson, the Secretary to the President and Mrs. Tammany with a score or more personal friends joined the President's household for the evening.

This family party includes Mr. Joseph R. Wilson, brother of the President, and Miss Alice Wilson, who arrived today to pass the week-end at the White House.

The invitations issued by telephone were for $35, at which time nearly the entire company was assembled.

At the conclusion of the play which ran slightly more than an hour, supper was served, also on the lawn.

No time has been fixed for Mrs. Wilson's departure for Cornish, although it is understood she and Miss Wilson will leave some time next week, possibly to celebrate Independence Day in the summer White House.

The death of the Minister from Venezuela at Atlantic City yesterday, with the plan of having his funeral services here on Monday, is likely to change the plans of departure for some of the diplomats, as all who can will attend the service for their late colleague.

Dr. Rojas, in the four summers he has spent in America, was a regular patrol of Atlantic City, where he spent a part of each season.

The French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand propose sailing for France June 30, to be absent all summer.

The Counselor of the Embassy and Mme. Clausen, who are passing their first summer in America, have taken a house at Manchester, Mass., where the embassy will be located after July 2.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Davis entertained at dinner last evening at the Army and Navy Club, complimentary to Miss Elizabeth Swartzell, whose marriage to their son, Edwin Charles Coville Davis, U. S. N., will take place this evening.

The bride party to attend Miss Swartzell and Edwin Davis, most of whom were included in last night's dinner company, are Miss Betty Brown, of Sewickley, Pa., Miss Kathryn Becker, of New Jersey; Miss Constance Gray, Miss Susan Desser, and Miss Romona Crampton, all of this city; Ensigns John Saxter, J. M. S. Desser, Monroe Kelly, Lieut. Owen Bartlett and Oliver Spiller, all of the navy, and the two brothers of the bride, Messrs. John and Henry Swartzell.

The German Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, has decided upon July 7 as the date of his sailing to join his family for the summer. Count von Bernstorff returned from a week's visit to Newport yesterday.

The Secretary of War, Mr. Garrison, left yesterday for Sea Bright, N. J., to join Mrs. Garrison at their summer home. The Secretary will return to town Monday.

Mr. F. A. Stagg, accompanied by Mrs. F. A. Stagg and Miss Percy Garner, of Winston-Salem, N. C., are guests at the Hotel Powhatan during their stay in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes, formerly of Richmond, Va., who are occupying a house in Sixteenth street for a year, with a view to making Washington their permanent winter home, have purchased the yacht Gretchen, in which they are now entertaining small and pleasant parties on the Potomac.

The Gretchen, built for the late John E. Rebyburn, and named for his wife, will be quite as appropriately named for her new owners, as the virtual mistress of the beautiful boat is Miss Madge Pickett Stokes, the daughter of purchaser. During the life time of Mr. Rebyburn the Gretchen was the scene of much delightful entertaining each spring in Washington, and later in the summer at New London.

Neither Mrs. Rebyburn nor her son cared to continue the ownership of a yacht, as their favorite mode of travel when on pleasure bent is by motor.

Miss Stokes, who is a very attractive addition to the younger set of the Capital, is most enthusiastic on the subject of her new possession, which will prolong her residence in Washington fully a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes have a home in the Berkshires where Mrs. Stokes will pass the greater part of the summer.

Mr. F. L. Converse and wife, and Mr. J. B. Harris and wife, of Pittsburgh, are making an extensive automobile trip of the East. While in Washington, they are guests at the Hotel Powhatan.

Mrs. George Barnett, wife of the commandant of the Marine Corps, is entertaining a large house party of young people at Wakefield Manor, Va. The guests are contemporaries of her two young daughters, the Misses Lelia and Anne Gordon.

Mrs. Joseph W. Folk has returned from several weeks' absence in Missouri and joined her husband, the chief counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the Dresden, where they have taken an apartment for the summer.

Mrs. Robert McCormick has taken Pinard Cottage, No. 3, at Newport, where she has just arrived for the season.

Mrs. E. Day Mercer, formerly of Atlantic City, but for the past season a resident of Washington, will sail tomorrow on the Meriton from Philadelphia to pass the summer abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howe have arrived in Newport, where they will pass the summer.

WHAT TO SERVE AT THE HOME TABLE

"It requires genius to order dinner, talent to cook dinner, but mere ability to eat dinner."

BREAKFAST.
Dried Beef Fricassee.
Cracker Corn Cake. Strawberry Jam.
Coffee.

LUNCHEON.
(Served under the trees.)
Tomatoes Filled with Cream Cheese Balls.
Cucumber and Sardine Sandwiches.
Egg Sandwiches.
Fudge Biscuits. Ginger Snaps.
Iced Cocoa.

DINNER.
Barbecued Ham with Bananas.
String Beans, Normandy Style.
Lettuce Hearts.
Lacto Ice. Mint Creams.
Small Coffee.

Cracker Corn Cake.—To one cupful of crisp cracker crumbs add two cupfuls of cornmeal, sifted with one and one-half teaspoonsful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Stir in two cupfuls of milk, pour the mixture into a well-buttered shallow pan, pour one fourth cupful of milk over the top, and bake in a rather brisk oven.

Egg Sandwiches.—Put one teaspoonful of butter in a pan to melt. Beat two eggs slightly, season and add two tablespoonfuls of milk; turn this into the melted butter and stir until thick and creamy. When cold spread between slices of buttered whole wheat bread. This combination is said to make a perfect food. (Cooking School.)

Barbecued Ham with Bananas.—Cut a thin slice of raw ham, and after freshening in cold water dry on a towel and place in a hot frying pan; dust with pepper, spread sparingly with mixed mustard and pour over one tablespoonful of vinegar. Fry quickly, turning often. Remove the skins from four firm bananas, and after marinating them in diluted lemon juice for thirty minutes cut in halves lengthwise, dip in softened grape or currant jelly and place on a buttered baking sheet; put into the oven and cook until soft, but not shapeless. Place the ham on a platter and arrange the bananas around it. Pour melted jelly over all.

Lacto Ice.—To one quart of buttermilk add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one egg, the yolk and white beaten separately, and three-fourths cupful of pineapple; when partially frozen, add the juice of one lemon. In place of the pineapple one may use one-half cupful of strawberry or red raspberry juice. (Prof. Mortensen.)

Cost of Materials.—Dried beef, 7 cents; five eggs, 12 cents; tomatoes and cream cheese, 15 cents; sardines, one-half can, 12 cents; cucumbers, 3 cents; homemade bread, two loaves, 10 cents; milk, cream, and buttermilk, 19 cents; sliced ham, 20 cents; four bananas, 6 cents; string beans and lettuce, 11 cents; meat, crumbs, seasoning, 4 cents; fruit juice, jam, jelly, 10 cents; coffee, cocoa, 5 cents; butter, one-third pound, 10 cents; homemade ginger snaps and mint creams, 5 cents. Total, 25 cents.

The separate blouse was never lovelier than it is this summer. Rumors are reaching us from Paris that the day of the loose, bagging blouse is passing and that in its stead we shall soon have something with a semblance of tightness about it. The meantime, the shapeless lace blouse is the favorite for restaurant wear and for the many occasions when an elaborate blouse is desired. In the sketch two charming lace models are shown. The other two blouses suggest the newer lines, although they, too, are loose. The lower one, with its pleated and set-in-sleeves of lace, is made of white tulle. The upper one is made of crepe, with a lace collar.

Famous Woman—Her Birthday and Yours

HELEN KELLER—MARY STEWART CUTTING

By MARY MARSHALL.

(Copyright, 1914.)

Helen Keller, who in many ways is the most remarkable woman living today, was born thirty-four years ago, on June 26, 1880. The story of her unusual life is well known to everyone of how at the age of eighteen months she suffered from a severe illness which deprived her of her sense of sight and hearing, and of how for six years she remained in darkness and ignorance till her remarkable teacher, Miss Anne Sullivan, succeeded in penetrating her blindness and deafness.

Still, in spite of the fact that Miss Keller is one of the most afflicted of mortals, she is one of the happiest, for she has a most extraordinary capacity for happiness. Few people have enjoyed friendship as she has, and her friends have been among the most distinguished men and women of the country. Alexander Graham Bell, the scientist, was one of her earliest friends; Mark Twain, of whom Miss Keller said that she could feel the twinkle of his eye in his hand, was one of her most loyal friends, and he told many of his funniest stories to Miss Keller's sensitive fingers.

Reading the words as he spoke, Joseph Jefferson, the great comedian, was another of her famous friends, and he once acted "Rip Van Winkle" for her. She felt the expressions of his face and felt his gestures, felt the texture of his costumes till she knew the play as well as many who have the gift of sight and hearing.

Strange as it may seem, Miss Keller often enjoys going to the theater. Her way of enjoying the play is to go behind the scenes after the play is over and, having previously been told the story of the play, feels the gestures and expressions used by the actors in the various parts, till she becomes perfectly familiar with their interpretation of the parts they play.

Among Miss Keller's best friends have always been her dogs. "My dog friends seem to understand my limitations," she says in her autobiography, "and always keep close beside me when I am alone. I love their affectionate ways and the eloquent wag of their tails." One of the most interesting pictures of Miss Keller is one in which she is photographed with her favorite bull terrier. Her sensitive hands are touching the dog and her face is lighted with an expression of delight, while the dog sits with the apparent knowledge of Miss Keller's limitations and pride in her friendship for him.

Another distinguished American woman whose birthday is celebrated on June 27 is Mary Stewart Cutting.

KEEPING THE BABY SWEET AND CLEAN

What is more pleasing to all than a clean, smiling, happy baby? The baby who is contented and happy is usually the one who is bathed every day and whose mother has been wise enough to train him to regular daily habits.

In order that a baby may grow and develop normally he should be kept sweet and clean all the time. Some mothers do not think it is necessary to bathe the baby every day, and instead of a clean soft complexion, the skin chafes easily and a dark crust appears on baby's head.

Every baby should have a tub bath once a day, and during the hot summer days he may be given a sponge bath several times to keep him cool and comfortable.

The best time for baby's bath is in the early part of the morning, preferably just before the feeding hour. The room should be warm and free from drafts. In order that the baby may not be exposed longer than is necessary everything which is needed should be ready and within easy reach before he is undressed—plenty of warm water, castile soap, talcum powder, soft wash cloths and towels, and clean clothes.

A foot tub filled with warm water should be placed conveniently near a table. The temperature of the bath should be from 90 to 95 degrees. If you have no thermometer a practical test for the correct temperature is to use water which feels warm to the elbow.

When everything is ready the baby is placed on a pillow, which has been laid on the table, undressed, and a blanket folded near him.

The face, neck and ears should be washed first with a clean, soft cloth, and carefully dried. If the scalp is covered with a crust it should be rubbed with vasoline or sweet oil several hours before, and by washing gently but firmly with soap and water this accumulation will gradually come off.

Before the baby is placed in the tub the body should be washed with soap and water.

When placing the baby in the tub the left hand should be placed under the shoulders and the feet grasped with the right hand. When in the water the body is securely held by the left hand. The right hand is left free to complete the bath.

with a pretty cotton braid held down with brass-headed tacks. Around the shelf she bound a double strip of cretonne about three inches high, which was fastened around the bottom of the shelf and up and down each leg with the same braid and brass tacks. This served as a slight protection for articles laid on the little shelf.

To each corner of the table, just below the drawer, she attached a bag or pouch, finished at the top with cotton thread, for buttons, one for cotton thread, one for silk, and the fourth for tape and other notions. A waste basket, covered with the same cretonne, served to hold scraps of sewing, and in case of storm table and basket could be picked up and carried from the porch without scattering things in every direction.

Frances Marshall will be glad to answer in this column any questions concerning household subjects.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

By WINIFRED SHORT.

Hindu women who have lost their husbands are not allowed to use the front door of a house.

The rich women of China are giving large sums to provide education for the girls of their country.

More than half the women in the United States work for pay during some period of their lives.

Of the 30 and over gainful occupations in the United States women have entered all but four.

Students at the William Penn High School for Girls in Philadelphia will be given a course in store salesmanship.

During the past year the increase in organized labor among women in New York State has been 111 per cent.

It is estimated that 55 per cent of the stock of the large railroad in the United States is owned by women.

One-ninth of all the women in the United States marry before the age of twenty, and one-half before they are twenty-five.

Out of the two professions in which women outnumber men, the female teachers lead by three to one, and in nursing ten to one.

Forty immigrant girls have just been graduated from a factory school maintained by a New York muslim manufacturer.

Miss Jane, better known as "Aunt Jane" Syron, has been selling newspapers in Elizabeth, N. J., for the past sixty years.

Mme. Natalie Degontcharova, a famous scene painter of Moscow, Russia, has started a new school of painting, called Rayonism.

Miss Ruth McArdie, policewoman of Bayonne, N. J., has issued an edict to the effect "that there must be no spooning in the parks."

At Douin, France, seamstresses make shirts at the rate of four an hour, for which they are paid at the rate of 4 cents a dozen.

Forty-eight per cent of the graduates of the American College for Girls at Constantinople have entered the teaching profession.

Mrs. Lillian Corbett, president of the Texas Woman Bankers' Association, is one of the ablest and most popular business women in that State.

TREATING A BURN.

That's the first thing. And do it very quickly. Simply apply a dry cloth of some sort.

Olive oil is good, or vaseline does. Lard or butter if entirely unsalted may be used.

Above all don't thrust the burn into cold water.

It relieves for an instant and may cause an ulceration.

And don't tie up a burn in a dry cloth—cloth admits air.

Don't rub or cut off hanging skin—simply apply some soothing oil.

DAILY HOROSCOPE.

"The stars incline, but do not compel." SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1914.

This day is rather a fortunate time for many commercial transactions, as well as for various artistic pursuits. Astrology finds that Jupiter changes from an adverse aspect to one that is strongly favorable, while Saturn, Neptune and Mercury are all friendly.

Saturn is in a place so strongly benefic in its influence, the seers declare, that whoever depends on thoughtful, conservative, diplomatic judgment should benefit.

The day is held as peculiarly auspicious for negotiations between nations or between large corporations. Banks are under a lucky sign and financial enterprises, especially those upon the welfare of nations depend, should be profitable.

The influence are believed to be propitious for the organization and systematizing of large business interests.

There is an encouraging sign for mining companies, and for corporations interested in underground work of every sort.

This aspect favors the attainment of positions of trust. It is said that work begun while this configuration prevails will assure slow but steady progress.

Whatever pertains to real estate, building and leasing should benefit by the astral government today.

Shoemakers, harnessmakers, hide and leather dealers, masons, potters and excavators are subject to lucky omens.

Those who collect money should find this position of the stars helpful. It is also promising to agents.

Neptune gives assurance, those who interpret the stars announce, that a period of extraordinary success in investigating psychic laws is at hand. A prophet who will win a large following is heralded.

Many marriages of note, especially among statesmen and legal celebrities, are foreshadowed.

Nature continues to be subject to the most unfavorable away of the planets.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a troublesome year. They should be exceedingly careful to safeguard their money. Men should be cautious in all business enterprises.

Children born on this day probably will be kind and loving. Both boys and girls may be foolishly generous. Those born under Cancer are usually quick in body and mind, clever in business and exceedingly ambitious. Owing to the influence of the Moon they may be changeable in mood.

A TAFFETA MOTOR BONNET.

Quiet and coquettish, yet eminently practical, is the newest thing in motor headgear. It is made of soft-textured taffeta, and in shape it most nearly resembles the puffy crowned caps worn by infants not so many years ago. A two-inch broad band in straw, fitting smoothly about the head and coming well over the brows, does duty as a brim, and to its upper edge is attached a silk crown that is puffy and crushable looking because its creases are not deep. The taffeta finish both inside and outside of the band, and to its sides, directly over the ears, are attached huge-crown silk. These spread into two long streamers, which will swathe the throat and shoulders if necessary. A similar motor hat may be developed in the heaviest quality of chiffon, providing that its crown portion is lined with silk. Many women prefer these, as one of the rosette-looped streamers can also be used as a face veil.

Summer-Spoiled Skin—Removed by Absorption

An undue summer exposure usually leaves an undesirable surface of tan, and the most sensible to remove such surface is to use a layer of surface skin. There is nothing better for this than ordinary mercuric wax, which actually absorbs the tan. It is itself absorbed, gently, gradually, so there is no inconvenience, no dirt and indoors. Spread the wax lightly over the entire face at bedtime and take it off in the morning with warm water. If you will get one ounce of mercuric wax at the drug store, use for a week or so, you may expect marked improvement daily. When the underlying skin is wholly in view your complexion will be a marvel of spotless purity and beautiful whiteness.

Don't let your summer wrinkles worry you; worry breeds more wrinkles. Banish them by bathing the face in a solution of powdered axillolite, dissolved in 4 pt. witch hazel. Used daily for a while, this will be found wonderfully effective.—A.D.
